Hello everyone,

Welcome to our August 2019 catalogue! It contains some great new ranges as well as this year's selection of Christmas gifts, including products from new suppliers in India and Bali. We're pleased to introduce our new selection of Fair Trade bamboo socks from India, a product which has so far only been available from China. Bamboo socks have become one of our top ranges since we introduced the first designs last year.

We also present a new range of Fair Trade bamboo kitchenware: drinking straws, skewers, and cutlery pouches. You'll notice that many of our new products have an 'eco' theme: recycled, sustainable, mango wood, and various alternatives to plastic. It is clear that the shift away from plastics is a long-term trend and not just a fashion. Now's the time to try some of these products out. Shared Earth is at the forefront of change in this area, our progress recognised by an invitation to Westminster to take part in this year's Parliamentary Review in September.

You'll find further information in this catalogue about packaging, plastics and a few of our producer groups. You often ask us about suppliers, how products are made and who benefits. We're especially keen to support Moses Karongo and the work he is bringing to Nairobi's slums.

And when you're ordering for Christmas, don't forget these bestsellers from our January catalogue! (page numbers refer to main 2019 catalogue)

Shared Earth - Environmental Action 2019

As well as supporting projects that directly tackle waste in producer nations (see Bali report overleaf), this year we continue to work with our producers and suppliers to reduce single-use plastics in both our product ranges and in the packaging that accompanies those products on their journeys around the world to us at Shared Earth in the UK.

We believe in supporting our producer groups to make these changes, rather than simply abandoning them, because small businesses in developing countries really struggle to find the latest environmentally friendly products. So we cannot yet claim to be plastic-free but we are making good progress. We have almost reached zero polystyrene, having instructed all our suppliers to stop using it, and shredded paper is replacing bubblewrap.

Greener products

We're pleased to introduce in this catalogue a new range of greetings cards, using peelable labels to hold card and envelope together, avoiding the need for plastic or cellophane bags. (see page 64-65)

Apart from re-using as many incoming boxes and packing materials as possible in our warehouse, we continue to expand our ranges of recycled products. We present more products in our bestselling bicycle chain range, including some great bottle holders and a wine rack, perfect gifts for Christmas. The circuit board sellotape dispenser is already a statement piece in our office.

And don't forget to look at our new range of bamboo straws, skewers and stirrers and the coconut wood cutlery pouches, that are already attracting very positive feedback as practical alternatives to single-use plastics. All great Christmas gifts!

WFTO Conference September 2019

Shared Earth presents resolution on the climate crisis

The World Fair Trade Organisation (WFTO) has 330 members in 76 countries, with total sales of nearly £1 billion.

Shared Earth has always tried to minimise harm to the environment. We are proud therefore to present a resolution on Fair Trade and the Climate Crisis to the WFTO biennial Conference in Lima, Peru in September 2019.

Fair Trade was born to combat poverty, denouncing the economic roots of inequality and social injustice. Now humanity is threatened by something none of us imagined when Fair Trade started: a worldwide crisis caused by global warming.

It is predicted that 75% of the adverse effects of global warming will fall on the South. The climate crisis is increasingly showing its effects: in the last 3 years, Shared Earth has contributed to relief funds after floods in Kashmir, earthquakes in Nepal, and floods in Kerala. This year suppliers tell us of droughts in India, and threats to our card supplier in Salay, a fishing village in the Philippines, from rising sea levels. Within the next 10 years, it is predicted, 120 million people could fall into poverty due to global warming, undoing all the achievements of Fair Trade in the last 50 years.

Global warming is the biggest challenge that humankind has ever faced, and we need to treat it as such! In May this year, the UK government declared a Climate Emergency. Meanwhile, the 10 Principles of the World Fair Trade Movement do not yet mention the climate crisis, and the Environment is Principle 10, seemingly the last of our priorities. We should be leading the way, not politicians!

Our Resolution, seconded by

Usha Exim, a producer in India, will lead to a major change in priorities. The key proposal is that Principle 10 is replaced by three new principles: one about tackling the climate crisis (transport, travel, energy etc); one about sustainability (local production, biodiversity, habitat, timber, organics etc); one about waste (packaging, recycling, avoiding plastic etc).

We also propose that the first of these should be Principle 2 in our new 12 Principles. In theory, all 10 Principles carry equal weight, but the impression is that it's the last of our priorities – and impressions count! Consumers need to see that we view tackling the climate crisis as a top priority.

There is a commercial reason for all this too. You, our customers, will agree that many of our best-selling ranges, like bamboo socks, jute bags and rice husk cups, are 'eco' ranges – that's what the market wants. By developing products in this direction, our sales, with your support, have increased by 30% each year for the last 6 years. If you haven't tried such products yet, now's the time to do so!

The Resolution we're presenting in Lima is about our Common Future and Vision. We are proud to be leading the way on this issue in the Fair Trade movement as a whole. With WFTO's wide membership and worldwide influence the effect if our Resolution is passed will be significant.

*Jeremy Piercy
Founder and MD, Shared Earth*

"The world is increasingly at risk of 'climate apartheid', where the rich pay to escape heat and hunger caused by the escalating climate crisis while the rest of the world suffers ... Climate change threatens to undo the last 50 years of progress in poverty reduction"
(P. Alston, UN rapporteur on extreme poverty and human rights, 24th June 2019)

Making dreams come true!

We can guarantee that our dreamcatchers work because every one we sell helps to transform lives for families in two communities in Bali.

In March of this year we drove through a tropical rainstorm up into the mountains above Ubud to a remote rural community where crochet work brings a vital income.

As the sun came out a group of women arrived with their daughters to show us the community's crocheting skills.

Further down the mountain their crochet work is incorporated into the dreamcatchers that are assembled by artisans in Keliki village. These Fair Trade products are therefore bringing a valuable income to two communities ...

NO MORE PLASTIC!

Shared Earth doesn't just buy dreamcatchers. Through Wayan, the artisan with the dreamcatcher business in Keliki, we have been providing funding for a local community group that is dedicated to tackling plastic pollution.

At dawn on a Sunday morning we joined her family and the Keliki - Clean and Green team by a temple on the outskirts of the village. A group of adult volunteers and 20 girls from a local dance club had gathered for their action day.

After a dazzling performance of traditional Balinese dancing they led us on a tour of the village streets, collecting plastic rubbish from the verges.

Bali struggles with waste. Single-use plastic bags are everywhere. Rainstorms sweep rubbish down the mountains, clogging up drains, streams, roads and rivers on its ugly way to the sea. Individual initiatives are vital. It was a joy to witness the passion and enthusiasm that exists to try to turn things around, particularly among younger people. We are proud to support them in their dream to create a cleaner plastic-free Bali. Dreamcatchers really work!

Bringing work to Nairobi's slums

People sometimes ask us why our African products aren't cheaper than they are. Why do products from, say, India, cost less? Are we making more of a profit? Are African producers charging inflated prices? The answer is no.

In Africa many producers lack the tools they need to make manufacturing more efficient. Where artisans in other countries have machines, in Africa work is done by hand. In fact, African artisans are usually earning considerably less than their counterparts in other countries. Because they lack machines, the articles they make take longer to produce and the work is often more dangerous.

Moses Karongo, a Kenyan artist, worked originally in painting (see bottom right). He started designing metal candle holders to support his family. To produce them he found artisans with welding skills, in the Kawangware slums in Nairobi. Kabiria metal crafts has grown and now employs 7 casual workers. Shared Earth is keen to support them in their quest to establish a business where they all can have permanent jobs.

The metal workers of Noah's Ark

Noah's Ark is a Fair Trade handicraft marketing organisation created in 1986 and based in the city of Moradabad. The organisation was formed in the early days of Fair Trade and their objective was to eliminate exporters taking advantage of artisans and their crafts.

They have a factory and provide work for around 300 people, including many artisan women, who benefit from the fact that they can work from home and maintain their responsibilities for children and other family members.

Noah's Ark provides benefits such as education, medical treatment for artisans and their families, evening schools for children in remote villages, assistance for artisans to build and establish their own workshops.

Amongst many Noah's Ark products we sell are: recycled bike chain gifts, gardenware, jetani wire lampshades, stoneware and many of our Explorer range products.

Filigree t-lite holders

Placed in the middle of a space, these Indian t-lite holders look great. Place them against a wall and they transform the room, casting intricate lacework shadows that shift in the dancing flame of the candle. They make excellent gifts.

Mango wood and sustainable crafts

India negotiated an exemption from the CITES rules banning trade in wood from endangered tree species. They did so to protect the livelihoods of thousand of artisans. Sheesham wood products now require a licence to prove the wood is sustainably sourced.

We recognise the need to protect the livelihoods of the craftsmen but over the past couple of years Shared Earth has worked steadily with our suppliers to help them make the phased switch away from Sheesham towards faster-growing woods such as mango.

Molten glass & teak root sculptures

In a village in the hills above Ubud in Bali is a glassblowing workshop. Adding to the tropical heat, the temperature by the furnaces is unbelievable. The artisans work quickly. In one corner two women are preparing broken sheet glass for recycling. Close by four men are rushing to and fro heating the glass until it glows, then deftly blowing it and turning it to create an extraordinary range of shapes.

Elsewhere other artisans are preparing discarded fragments of teak root, or filing glass surfaces until they are smooth and safe to touch.

The result is a collection of beautiful and unique pieces, the glass melted to hug the natural contours of the root on which they perch, frozen in time like one of Dali's molten watches.

Supporting Fair Trade in Africa

Celebrate a special someone in your life and their interests or profession: the chef, the handyman, the gardener, the surfer, the musician ... with these clever figures made from used spark plugs, oil drums and wire.

They are a great example of recycling at its most imaginative and nuttiest!

Kenya was one of the first nations to ban single use plastic so here at Shared Earth we don't have to ask for less plastic; the Kenyans are world leaders.

Spark plug figures are a Fair Trade product. We love them!

Bali's bottle man

On an Ubud back street is an artist who is passionate about recycling. Budi loves repurposing glass to give it a second life. He speaks animatedly of collection runs to bars and restaurants, and of finding particular bottles as rare and precious to him as jewels.

These artisan pieces are real collectors' items, perfect as statement pieces on any table and proof positive that anything can have a second life. Note that supply may vary as Budi has to source the bottles!

Bali gold mosaics

Blending radiant gold surfaces with vibrant colour is integral to Bali's rich and varied cultural traditions. The effect is seen on carved wooden Buddhas and on musical instruments such as the ornate gamelan design (bottom left).

These new mosaics transfer this exotic Balinese aesthetic to a stunning range of plates and coasters. To enable the plates to be displayed to full effect we also offer various metal display stands. Expected in October.

great explorer range III

NA19724

compass & sundial watch
brass & leather

Our Explorer range goes from strength to strength, and this summer's collection rises to new heights.

We designed the Spitfire tribute compass in-house. The artisans have never produced or seen anything like it; a compass with a tiny plane as the compass needle! The lid carries beautiful and poignant words from High Flight, by war poet John Gillespie Magee Jr.

There are many other treasures for aficionados of adventure and derring-do, including the sundial compass watch that will assist any Larper and gamer in their quest to assemble the ultimate costume! And, best of all, these are all Fair Trade products!

Bamboo socks

Put your feet up and enjoy more fabulous and fancy Fair Trade footwear from Shared Earth, your favourite Fair Trade sock designers!

Why Bamboo and not cotton?

There are many reasons why bamboo viscose yarn is good for the environment.

Bamboo grows without the need for fertilisers or pesticides. Because it naturally requires less water (a third of the water required to grow cotton), farmers don't need to irrigate their crop, saving water in a country where water shortages are a big problem.

Bamboo yields are ten times higher per hectare than cotton and the plant rarely needs replanting, sprouting on its own. Bamboo yarns require less dye than cotton and keep their colour for longer.

Why is bamboo viscose great to wear?

- it's supersoft
- it's 40% more moisture absorbant than cotton
- it's a breathable fabric that keeps feet fresh and dry
- it's comfortable
- it's naturally anti-bacterial
- it's durable and stronger than cotton
- it's hypo allergenic

CHRISTMAS

Celebrating the joy of Christmas while supporting artisans in developing countries around the world

We suggest you order these products early, as due to high demand we ran out of many lines last year. We've increased our orders this year, but you can never tell what the bestsellers will be, and once we run out, that's it, and it's too late to re-order in time for Christmas.

Handmade felt

Stay bang on trend with our new collection of felt Christmas tree decorations.

The adorable Santa Avocado leads the pack! Irresistible to millennials everywhere. Handmade by artisans in Mumbai, these decorations come from Asha Handicrafts, one of our key Indian Fair Trade suppliers. Experience shows that they will sell out quickly so order soon.

We work with over 40 producer groups from around the world

Shared Earth is a leading UK supplier of Fair Trade, eco-friendly and ethical gifts. As a Fair Trading company, we believe in ensuring that the artisans who make our products get a fair wage, and work in a safe and healthy environment.

We also try to make sure that the community as well as the individual benefits from our trade, and visit as many suppliers as possible to check that Fair Trade standards are being applied, for instance: adequate lighting and ventilation in the workplace, gender equality, and no child labour. We are a guaranteed member of the World Fair Trade Organisation and our performance is monitored, by independent auditors, against the ethical standards set by WFTO.

Doing what we can to tackle the climate crisis is key to our policy making and we try to minimise the impact our business has on the environment by:

- Selling products made from sustainable and/or recycled materials
- Shipping goods by sea not air
- Recycling waste and using less plastic
- Recycling postage and packaging materials
- Reducing energy usage
