This catalogue is presented as a symbol of HOPE in difficult times; that better times are to come.

Hello everyone, welcome to our August 2020 catalogue, full of great new products as always.

The last few months have been like no others, for individuals, for businesses and for people around the world. We have had many Coronavirus deaths in the UK, but we can at least be thankful for a strong health system which has coped with the crisis generally pretty well. Most businesses have also had welcome support from the government to help see us through. For many of the countries we buy from, this has not been the case, and the economic effects of lockdown for some have been disastrous, as people have lost their living, with no social security to fall back on.

In countries like Bangladesh, where poverty was widespread before the pandemic, our suppliers are desperate for us to place orders, to give people work, or else they may starve. It's the same in India, Kenya and many of the countries we buy from. We are doing what we can but we in turn ask you to support us by placing orders with us, so that we can give work to all these people who are struggling to pay for food to put on the table.

We would like to pay tribute to all the unsung heroes working for our suppliers, who have helped those around them, in countries which don't have the facilities we are so lucky to have here in the UK. Many have generously donated their time and resources to setting up food kitchens and making sure their artisans and their families are supported. Some have handed out face masks, set up health centres and a few, like some NHS and other care workers here, have lost their lives as a result. In Kenya, our suppliers have worked with a local charity to set up community hand sanitisers in the slums to prevent the spread of the virus. More than 300 have been set up, across 11 slums, which by mid-June had been used more than 13 million times! They have also organised soap-making courses, a skill which will be a source of income for the future too.

The children at Karm Marg in Faridabad, New Delhi have been giving tea and biscuits to the police, who have worked long hours during lockdown. In turn the police have helped them to reach out to desperate people in remote areas.

You might say that all we can do is just a drop in the ocean compared to the immensity of global poverty and human need. There is a story of a little girl, perhaps like Nandini on the back cover of this catalogue, who went to the beach with her father one day and found it covered in starfish which had been washed up by the tide. When she started throwing them back in the sea, her father said to her, "It doesn't matter what you do, there are thousands of them, it won't make any difference." Her reply could stand for all we are trying to do in Fair Trade – "well, it matters to these ones" – and she went on throwing the starfish back into the sea.

Shared Earth - Fighting Covid-19 with reuseable masks

Masks - or face coverings as they are known - have been a godsend in countries whose lockdowns have put artisans out of work where no social security exists and they've been desperate for work to feed their families. The PeoplesMask was designed by WFTO - Asia. It has two layers of 100% cotton fabric, a pocket for tissue to increase efficiency, is re-usable, is produced and packed under strict hygiene standards, REACH and BLUESIGN certified. Masks on this page are from Fair Trade suppliers in Sri Lanka.

Our suppliers the Zuri foundation have done stiring work in Kenya providing face coverings for children in the slums in Tabaka, where soapstone is made.

Also from Sri Lanka, these masks are made from recycled saris. The REACH and BLUESIGN standards can't be guaranteed, but all textiles are thoroughly washed and treated to ensure safety.

Recycled Glassware

Crisil is our first supplier from Bolivia, hit hard by Covid-19 and needing work to recover. It's a family-run business providing income for over 500 families, and it's a great eco product, using 100% recycled glass, which is broken up, washed and melted before being mouth-blown and shaped into glasses, jugs and other products. Top quality which we highly recommend as an excellent gift for Christmas.

Wood and ceramic chests

Attractive white and blue ceramic drawers that are perfect for storing a hundred things! One of our bestselling ranges.

Spices, buttons, keys, trinkets, safety pins, habberdashery, knickknacks, bits & bobs ...

They're from a new Indian supplier which carries out regular audits of its social and environmental performance.

The wood used is mango wood and the ceramic drawers are all hand painted.

Mosaic bowls

Bali managed to contain Covid-19 quite well; but of course it lost its tourist trade and even now, it's struggling. Many of the artisans in Bali are desperate for work so we're pleased to present these new colours of this attractive mosaic range. No photos can catch the shimmering effect when you see these mosaics 'in the flesh', they're absolutely fantastic.

Wood and marble chopping boards and kitchen utensils

We introduced this style of combined marble/wood in our January catalogue and it sold out almost straight away, with sales in the first 3 months matching what we'd expect in a whole year. We're expecting these new varieties to be bestsellers too, and we have high hopes for the marble cheese knife and bottle opener too. From Fair Traders Asha Handicrafts, who have just celebrated their 45th year. All handmade by artisans in Agra.

Bamboo socks

Put your feet up and enjoy our fabulous and fancy Fair Trade footwear from Shared Earth, your favourite Fair Trade sock designers!

If you've liked our previous Fair Trade bamboo socks from India, we're sure you won't be disappointed by this new selection. Those difficult people, you can't think of anything they might possibly want? What can you get them?? Bamboo socks of course! They appeal to all ages and they're very comfortable to wear. We also introduce some new triple packs, with great combinations, especially for animal lovers.

Why is bamboo viscose great to wear?

- it's supersoft
- it's 40% more moisture absorbant than cotton
- it's a breathable fabric that keeps feet fresh and dry
- it's comfortable
- it's naturally anti-bacterial
- it's durable and stronger than cotton
- it's hypo allergenic

Jute bags

Five more beautiful and unique designs for our ever-popular jute bag range, from our in-house design team at Shared Earth.

Our jute bags are made in Kolkata, India and are a great alternative to single-use plastic bags.

This new collection introduces contrasting and complimentary colours to the handles and/or side panels to make our bags more vibrant than ever!

Recycled bags Handmade in India

Our new supplier Conserve, based in New Delhi, India, is totally dedicated to eco values and in particular reducing the amount of plastic that litters India, blocks rivers and eventually ends up in the ocean. They're a true pioneer in this field, using ever-innovative techniques, and in 15 years, they have trained over 1,200 individuals in how to make upcycled products, who now do so independently.

No fears of competition here! It's the reason for their business, they want to encourage as many people as possible to re-use and upcycle. They are also a Fair Trade livelihood system for Delhi's rag-pickers, combining social and eco values, a great example to others. We hope you will support them by ordering these bags.

Wooden stools

Our suppliers in Thailand, like many around the world, had to stop production for several weeks during the lockdown there – which seems to have worked better than in many countries!

We're delighted to present a new exciting selection of these ever-popular stools, carved from eco-friendly raintree wood.

All the stools here are 24cm high.

Playbooks

Our new supplier in Sri Lanka is a WFTO member with a mission to promote eco values which we hope you share too. These educational toys are made with soft textiles, the best we have seen yet which combine Fair Trade, concern for our planet and great design – the children we showed them to loved them. We recommend them highly, they're high quality, hard wearing and make excellent presents.

Worry dolls

These worry dolls are made by artisans in the rural Highlands of Guatemala, descendants of the Mayan people. Our orders benefit about 200 families. Poverty is endemic in the Highlands, in some areas child malnutrition is around 70%

Climate change is a key problem, with farming badly affected. This year it's been drought; last year, a rare spring hailstorm destroyed their whole crop of corn, a staple central America. Rain patterns are unpredictable, storms stronger and hurricanes have often left them with nothing. So it's apt that we're introducing a range of worry dolls which focus specifically on environmental issues.

Handicrafts can make all the difference, between sending a child to school or not for instance. Fair Trade can provide a regular, reliable income, at a time when weather patterns are increasingly unreliable. They also promote the rich history and culture of Guatemala, which deserves to be known around globe. Let's buy more worry dolls and stop these people from having to worry so much about their future!

Rainbow animals

More quirky animals from Tabaka, the home of stone carving in Kenya. The artisans there have been badly affected by the lockdown. Together with the Zuri Foundation, the Just Giving pages on our website have raised over £3,000 to help out. The image below shows a soap-making workshop we organized in Tabaka. This has helped combat Covid-19, but it's also a skill which can be used in the future to generate income.

Vegetable keyrings

We just love these cartoon style fruits and vegetables from India! They're made with felt, and if you're not getting enough vitamins and minerals, maybe they will help to remind you when you get your keys out, 'yes, I must cook some carrots/parsnips or eat some fruit today'. The artisans loved making them; if any are out of shape at all, it's probably because they were laughing so much they put a stitch or two in the wrong place...

The unseen victims of Covid-19

Nandini

Nandini was a 12 year old sponsorship child in one of our supplier Tara Projects' education schemes in New Delhi, for children from disadvantaged backgrounds. She died in June, not from Covid-19, but because she was unable to receive treatment for a minor fever. Nandini was an only child and her parents are devastated. Koko from Tara writes:

Due to the strict lockdown, it was impossible for her parents to take her to hospital on time. When her fever increased, somehow with the help of one of our volunteers she was taken to a government hospital. Unfortunately she was not attended seriously by the doctors there, they just gave her some tablets and sent her back. She was not admitted in the hospital, as so many wards had been converted to Corona specific.... Hundreds of sick people are being deprived of ordinary treatment due to the pandemic; the hospitals just have no capacity.

In response to this, Tara has set up a health centre in Badarpur, at great risk to the doctors and other volunteers. Several volunteers have died with Covid-19, such as Manju, a 45-year old community worker, whose husband was a rickshaw driver. Emergency treatment and oxygen were not available, with the hospitals overflowing and unable to take her in.

Tara's education programme has been going for 20 years. Over 200 children from very poor families are supported, 75% of them girls. They are not schools – sometimes the 'classroom' might be a small piece of land in a slum, with just a blackboard and a teacher, pupils aged from 5 to 65 squatting on the ground to learn basic literacy. Many girls from impoverished families suffer from health problems and are often malnourished; education can be the key to their future.

If you would like to sponsor one of these children (boy or girl), Tara would love to hear from you!

Let's honor the unseen victims of Covid-19, pay tribute to all who have helped others during this crisis, and aim to create a better world!
