Hello everyone, Welcome to our new August 2021 catalogue. In keeping with our mission to help tackle the climate crisis, we introduce some great new trend-led baskets, rugs and throws, made from recycled or sustainable materials like jute and seagrass.

The seagrass baskets are from a new Fair Trade supplier, Mai Vietnamese Handicrafts. You can also see their intricate recycled paper decorations on page 44.

This catalogue is filled with new eco products, we're especially delighted to present:

- Our 'No Way!ste' range of soaps, solid shampoos and other bodycare products, handmade in a small workshop in Yorkshire, with designer packaging and at a price that everyone can afford
- Travel towels from Pangea, a 100% eco project in Bali. According to one of our zero waste shops in York, they're the first bamboo towels they've seen that don't contain plastic in some form. The aim is to 'clean up the world', and for every towel purchased, 2lbs of waste are collected, in rivers and on beaches in Bali, Ecuador, Tanzania and other countries. Fantastic!

We also present the biggest range of Christmas decorations we've ever had... from India, Bangladesh, Vietnam and Kenya.

Covid is not over yet; lockdowns still exist in many of our supplier countries, and many artisans are out of work as a result. Often, it's been hard to have our orders made, or shipped. We've done our best to help our suppliers, often ordering more than we would usually do. A big thank you to all our customers who support us, and our suppliers, in these difficult times!

Recycled Sari Wrapped Storage Baskets

Following the knockout success of our previous sets of 3 storage baskets (PROK009) we're delighted to introduce this new selection from our Fair Trade suppliers in Bangladesh, which is already suffering from rising sea levels. It's great that we can support them with these sustainable, climate-friendly products!

Vietnamese Collapsible Rice Baskets

These practical carrying baskets are made from 100% natural seagrass and are woven in Vietnam. They come with strong, flexible handles and can be 'collapsed' to half the size for easy stacking and different usage. Traditionally used to carry rice from the fields to the market, they're totally sustainable. From our new Fair Trade supplier, Mai Vietnamese Handicrafts.

Recycled rugs and mats

As we move forward in our quest to combat climate change, we are prioritising recycled products, which use up some of the waste that's created in our world. In India, it also provides an income for many artisans who would otherwise be out of work.

Our supplier Aspiration in New Delhi was founded 40 years ago by Padam Kapoor, who was passionate to retain Indian handicraft skills and traditions. Now as we try to find a use for all the waste that litters the streets and clogs up India's rivers and countryside, Aspiration's artisans are turning their skills in new directions to turn this waste into attractive, exciting new designs.

We have partnered with PANGEA, a fantastic eco business in Bali which aims both to avoid plastic and to help clean up the planet. For every towel purchased, 2lbs of trash is collected from polluted beaches and rivers. The bamboo come from sustainable farms, using far less water than cotton. And they're great to use, absorbing 3 times more water than normal microfibre towels.

Loofahs!

The loofah is a dried-out gourd of the cucumber family. It's an excellent scrubber for sinks, tiles and other hard surfaces, and it's a great exfoliating sponge helping to give you a clean and healthy skin. It can also be used as a soap dish, its porous quality allowing soap to dry out fast.

Kisii stone dinosaurs

Kisii stone, that unique soapstone which is mixed in Tabaka, Kenya, has been on the market for years, so we've asked our artisans to come up with some colourful new designs. We hope you like them!

Usually men carve and paint the stone, and women sand and polish it, the lowest paid part of the process. Last year, Zuri worked with the group to change this, training women in carving and painting. You would think that men would be better at carving aggressive creatures like dinosaurs, but maybe that's not the case...

Kisii animals

Our kisii stone is from Tabaka self-help group, founded in 1991 by Charles Nyanita to help provide food for his family in what is a very poor rural area of Kenya. Now, the group has about 50 members.

Last year, Zuri (which imports the stone) provided 200 masks to carvers and their community, donated washing barrels and set up training workshops on soap making, an income generation activity aimed at helping the community during the downturn in trade caused by Covid. Shared Earth has also tried to help out by commissioning more products than we would normally buy (see pages 150 and 242 in our January catalogue).

lbs TRASH COLLECTED

"We believe the Earth is one, and the borders and flags that divide us are just an illusion"

Pangea is a new, fast-spreading movement which aims to clean up the world! In the last 2 years, its 40 clean-up projects have collected 37,000lbs of trash. As well as these projects it sets up river barriers, to prevent plastic and other waste from entering the oceans in the first place.

"We are all one, we are here together and together we can change the world and save our planet"

Projects are mostly in developing countries, but not entirely; recently, a Pangea team in the UK cleaned up 628lbs of trash from Redcliff Wharf, Bristol.

"We are at the beginning of a new era – a shift from consuming things that harm the environment to creating things that help it"

Pangea's towels are a model of sustainability, made from bamboo, which captures CO2 and releases oxygen; they're compostable, and the funds generated help to clean up trash, involving volunteers and local communities... Let's help them to grow by selling their towels and doing our bit to save the planet!
