

Geometrical terrariums

These trendy functional geometrical shaped terrariums are made by our Fair Trade supplier in Moradabad, India.

Terrariums are miniature gardens contained in a glass container sealed or open-air. They can reside in many different interiors due to their small scale. These terrariums that we're introducing are stunning and will make fantastic centrepieces or additions to any room.

Hexagon, pyramid and diamond shapes - works of art that will show off the plantscapes and will surely gain attention from anyone.

Brilliant gift for anyone, terrariums are easy to maintain. Keep in a bright room but not in direct sunlight. Open air terrariums require watering every few days. Sealed ones do not require watering frequently as with them being enclosed, an ecosystem is created - they are self-sufficient

Note: Plants are not included.

A different form of terrarium - hanging globes. Made in Bali along with our sculptures on the next page.

These unique hanging items bring an innovative way to add a natural decorative element to the home. Fill with different combinations of plants and even add little personalised decorations like pebbles, shells, crystals or wood. Follow a season or festivities theme maybe.

There's no reason why these can't be used to curate things other than plants too! Pot Pouri, wine corks, pebbles, fairy lights - the possibilities are endless when decorating with these glass globes.

We have 4 different sizes ranging between 10-20cm which include jute rope.

Note: Plants are not included

Molten glass & teak root sculptures

In a village in the hills above Ubud in Bali is a glassblowing workshop. In one corner two women are preparing broken sheet glass for recycling. Close by four men rush to and fro heating the glass until it glows, then deftly blowing it into an extraordinary range of shapes.

Elsewhere other artisans are preparing discarded fragments of teak root. The result is a collection of beautiful and unique pieces, the glass melted to hug the natural contours of the root on which they perch, frozen in time like Dali's molten watches...

Save our elephants!

The main threat to elephants is a familiar one: loss of habitat. The risk is especially severe for Asian elephants, where habitats are increasingly fragmented by roads, logging, agriculture and new building. Poaching for ivory is a bigger issue in Africa. Both species are threatened by climate change.

Elephants need a huge amount of water, difficult enough anyway, but climate change is bringing more and more droughts and unpredictable weather patterns. Anything we can do to tackle the climate crisis will help!

Kaisha grass Laundry baskets

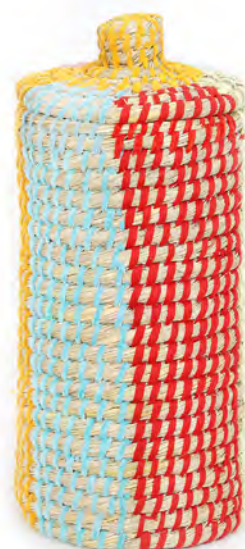

These large robust baskets are made out of Kaisha grass. They are carefully hand-woven by skilled women in producer groups in Bangladesh.

The artisans purchase the materials from the local market and clean the grass before moving onto the dyeing process. After the grass has been dyed, it is then left in the sunlight to dry. Shortly after, the artisans weave the baskets with the grass using a traditional technique

Perfect for everyday use. Primarily made with the intention of being a laundry basket, but may be used for storing other things like toys, blankets or even firewood!

Great for students!

Handwoven by local artisans near Delhi, these rag rugs (right) provide income for Karm Marg, the home for street children which we support.

Recycled rag rugs and mats

Rag rugs used to be made in Britain, in the olden days (not so long ago) when we didn't waste things that could be used again. As late as the 1960s, the rag n' bone man could still sometimes be seen in our streets on his horse and cart, tinkling his bell and shouting 'rag 'n bon-es' as he went along (remember Steptoe & Son?). Rags – any form of clothing – were a valuable commodity, used for such purposes as carpet underlay, mattress stuffing and seats on trains and buses.

Made from leftover fabric remnants from the garment industries, rag rugs are affordable, last for years and can be machine washed.

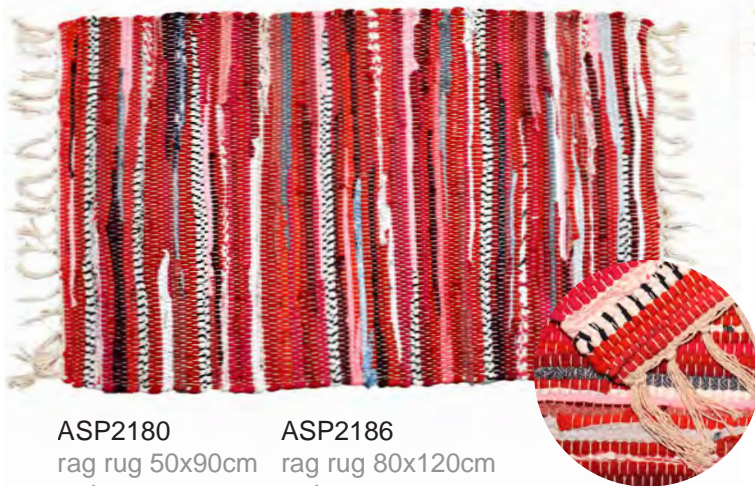

JUG064
178x100cm

We've tried for ages to source these and now at last the artisans we work with have transformed the basic rag rug so they are geared to specific colourways. Selling well since they arrived in September 2021, they come in two sizes.

The textile industry accounts for approximately 10% of global greenhouse gas emissions, making it a major contributor to climate change.

Cushion inners

EOHF18

Our new ECO cushion fillers are made from recycled clear PET plastic bottles that are cleaned and re-processed into chip form, then processed again into compressed 275 kilo bales. The fibre is then run through another machine and blown into corovin cushion ticks which are made from a Polypropylene fabric. On average a cushion pad has around the equivalent of 15 x 500ml plastic bottles inside it.

Using these inners will make your cushions look much more attractive on display.
