GENKI

About Genki

We're delighted to present GENKI, an eco-fashion, Fair Trade label, making women's and unisex clothes from upcycled, vintage Indian silk saris. Every item is beautifully crafted, one-of-a-kind and high quality.

GENKI is against fast fashion and is a sustainable brand with bespoke, bold and vibrant pieces. The beauty of these upcycled designs is that every item has a history - this is what makes each piece unique.

Camille, the founder of Genki, is a fashion designer, keen to update the kind of 'hippy' image often associated with recycled clothing, into designs which will appeal to all. We think she's succeeded brilliantly, and her clothing will be as popular as the top-selling kantha scarves we already import from India...

GENKI doesn't define gender or specify who can wear its designs. Many of its pieces, like the popular wrap tops, can be adjusted to fit a variety of body shapes and sizes; Genki is for everybody.

The Story

Camille was inspired by her French granny and the vintage fabrics in her fascinating dressing up box. Especially silk, which she found keeps you cool in the summer and warm in the winter.

As she grew older, she found it impossible to find these vibrant colours and materials in the shops. She also became acutely aware of the damage the fast fashion industry has on the environment, and on the people involved in making the clothes we wear.

In Rajasthan, India she found herself reconnecting with the childlike glee she had going through her granny's clothes so many years before, transfixed with the idea that as each silk sari was recycled, every piece had its own personal story. She began working with different families who specialised in sourcing these silk saris, then with artisan tailors, upcycling them into beautiful new garments that were also fairly traded. Right from the start, she was keen to support small family business, pay them fairly and treat them as equal partners in her new business.

Fair Trade

Genki works with independent tailors and fabric traders in Rajasthan, India, has personal relationships with everyone in the production chain, from the families who sell the recycled fabrics, to the tailors who make the clothes. The supply line is simple, personal and transparent with every item handmade with love.

Camille tries to ensure that every step of the process is kind to our planet. It's the opposite of 'fast' fashion; fabrics are sourced from local, family-run businesses, and each piece is made lovingly by hand.

Tops

These stunning 'butterfly' wrap tops were Genki's first creation and flew off the shelves as soon as they were launched. They encompass everything the brand stands for: the bold sleeves are playful and feel-good, their shapes are adaptable and they look wonderful on all bodies. Every piece is unique, recycled from the multiple colours and patterns you find on silk saris in India.

Bomber jackets

Bomber jackets have proved to be a lasting trend, popular since the 90s.

These ones are exceptional, not just made with recycled materials, but also reversible. One day you feel like wearing red? The next day, blue? You can do both! Unisex designs, they will fit a variety of shapes and sizes.

We recommend that you buy several, so you have a variety of colours and patterns to offer your customers. We're so confident that they'll sell (and you'll re-order) that we have no hesitation in saying we'll take them back if they don't.

Dresses

A selection of classic, halter and wrap dresses (and a kimono), all from upcycled silk. When the samples arrived at our shop in York, our staff immediately told us to double or treble our order as so many wanted to buy them! Again, we recommend you buy extra to suit different customers, and again, we're happy to say we'll take them back if they don't sell – we're confident they will!

Why Bamboo and not cotton?

There are many reasons why bamboo viscose yarn is good for the environment.

Bamboo grows without the need for fertilisers or pesticides. It naturally requires less water (a third of the water required to grow cotton), so farmers don't need to irrigate their crop, saving water in a country where water shortages are a big problem.

Bamboo yields are ten times higher per hectare than cotton and the plant rarely needs replanting, sprouting on its own. Bamboo yarns require less dye than cotton and keep their colour for longer.

Why is bamboo viscose great to wear?

- it's supersoft
- it absorbs 40% more moisture than cotton
- it's a breathable fabric keeping feet fresh and dry
- it's comfortable
- it's naturally anti-bacterial
- it's durable and stronger than cotton
- it's hypo allergenic

A Fair Trade success story

Ishmael Omondi (ZOM code jewellery) was brought up in Kibera Slum, Nairobi, which is home to over 250, 000 people crammed into just 2.5km. Life is tough and most people stay stuck in the cycle of poverty. Ishmael lived as a street boy, after running away from a broken home. During this time, he received help from Zuri Design, which with its Kenya partner was training former street boys in the art of jewellery making. Ishmael excelled at this and went on to establish his own business. In 2022 he succeeded in his goal to move out of Kibera, to a secure and clean neighbourhood with a bricks and mortar home, thus breaking out of the cycle of poverty and ensuring a different life for his family and 3 young children.

Last year Ishmael and Helen (from Zuri) established Omondi Jewellery, which aims to showcase the beauty of workmanship that has been created from overcoming hardship, and give a contemporary feel to traditional African design. It employs people from Kibera slum, providing a stable income or a steppingstone to those, like Ishmael, who are battling against the odds to thrive in a slum.

Shared Earth has been integral to Ishmael's journey, meeting with him in 2009 in his original workshop. Our support is a testimony to the change that is possible, regular orders, a long term relationship, support when things go wrong (for instance, Ishmael's workshop burnt down in 2021). We hope you will help to ensure a bright future for him and his Kibera artisans, by ordering this stunning jewellery.

Natural gemstones & twisted wire pendants

Our bold gemstone jewellery range combines spirituality and nature perfectly. Working closely with our artisans, we've developed a range that will stand out and sell itself thanks to its simple but beautiful nature. Combining natural gemstones with twisted wire techniques, these handcrafted pieces are absolutely stunning and are selling really well for the shops which take them. Buying our jewellery directly helps our supplier Tara Projects fund their many social projects, from planting trees, recycling and funding water conservation projects to providing educational and vocational centres, health education and free health care to over 10,000 people.

Jewellery stands

These jewellery stands are made in Bali from jempinis wood, also known as the Umbrella Tree. Native to Australasia, jempinis is not considered endangered in the wild. The stands are fantastic for displaying necklaces, earrings, bangles, bracelets, and rings both to retail customers in shop and on the dressing table at home.
