Bike chain, nuts and bolts

These bike chain products are made in a Fair Trade workshop in Moradabad, Northern India.

The recycled chains come from two sources: 60% are collected from bicycle repair centres and 40% are cut-offs/loose waste from factories and big shops.

Such quirky items always catch customers' attention and are excellent gifts for men and all passionate cyclists!

Save our elephants!

The main threat to elephants is loss of habitat. It's especially severe for Asian elephants, where habitats are increasingly fragmented by roads, logging, agriculture and new building. Poaching for ivory is a bigger issue in Africa. Both species are threatened by climate change.

Elephants need a huge amount of water, difficult enough anyway, but climate change is bringing more and more droughts and unpredictable weather patterns. Anything we can do to tackle the climate crisis will help!

Kaisa grass Laundry baskets

These large robust baskets are made out of Kaisa grass. They are carefully hand-woven by skilled women in Bangladesh.

The artisans purchase the materials from the local market and clean the grass before moving onto the dyeing process. After the grass has been dyed, it is then left in the sunlight to dry. Shortly after, the artisans weave the baskets with the grass using a traditional technique

They're perfect for everyday use. Primarily made with the intention of being a laundry basket, but may be used for storing other things like toys, blankets or even firewood!

Recycled rag rugs

Rag rugs used to be made in Britain, in the olden days (not so long ago) when we didn't waste things that could be used again. As late as the 1960s, the rag n' bone man could still sometimes be seen in our streets on his horse and cart, tinkling his bell and shouting 'rag 'n bo-o-nes' as he went along (remember Steptoe & Son?). Rags – any form of clothing – were a valuable commodity, used for such purposes as carpet underlay, mattress stuffing and seats on trains and buses.

Recycled cotton chindi rugs

As we continue on our quest to combat climate change, we are prioritising products which make use of discarded, waste materials. These rugs do just that, as well as providing an income for many artisans who would otherwise struggle to find work.

These contemporary 'ombre' designs are especially effective in minimalist settings. Long lasting and top quality.

Our supplier Aspiration is now a member of WFTO (World Fair Trade Organisation). Aspiration was founded by Padam Kapoor (now retired), an expert in Indian handicrafts who for many years promoted the interests of handicraft artisans to the Indian government.

Doormats

As we try to find a use for all the waste that litters the streets and clogs up India's rivers and countryside, Aspiration's artisans use their skills to turn this waste into these attractive, hard-wearing designs.
