

Cotton rugs

The subtle geometric designs and colours of these Fair Trade cotton rugs enable them to blend effortlessly with contemporary furniture and décor.

The rugs and throws on this spread are made from recycled cotton, offcuts from the garment industry. Out with the new, in with the old!

NEW RANGE

PET rugs

One of the big challenges of plastics recycling is what to make with the plastics you have collected. Recycling only works if you make further secondary use of the plastics.

Enter our new range of PET rugs from one of our Indian Fair Trade suppliers. Made from recycled Polyethylene terephthalate, commonly used for food containers and drinks bottles, the end product is soft and stain resistant. It is washable at 30°C.

Hard wearing and long lasting, the rugs can be used indoors or outdoors.

And, of course, at end of life it can be recycled! Again!

This rag rug is made by artisans from local villages in a rural area near Delhi. The rags are given to the artisans who make the rugs on a handloom in their homes. Sizes may vary slightly, colours a lot. (Supports Karg Marg, home for street children.)

Round rag rugs

Rag rugs made from a variety of different materials: some from polyester, others from cotton and jute. They are assembled in a clothing workshop in Tripur, southern India from the fabrics left over from the production of fashion clothing .

rebicycled

Bestselling range

These products are made in a Fair Trade workshop in Moradabad, Northern India.

The recycled bicycle chains come from two sources: 60% are collected from bicycle repair centres and 40% are cut-offs/loose waste from factories and big shops.

Such quirky items always catch customers' attention and are excellent gifts for men and all passionate cyclists!

Supporting Fair Trade in Africa

Celebrate a special someone in your life and their interests or profession: the chef, the handyman, the gardener, the surfer, the musician ... with these clever figures made from used spark plugs, oil drums and wire.

They are a great example of recycling at its most imaginative and nuttiest!

Kenya was one of the first nations to ban single use plastic so here at Shared Earth we don't have to ask for less plastic; the Kenyans are world leaders.

Spark plug figures are a Fair Trade product. We love them!

Waste brass is melted down and poured into moulds to make the bells. Making brass from new zinc and copper is uneconomical, so recycling creates a sustainable industry. Melting down a variety of brass alloys creates a rich array of warm golden hues.

Recycled collectables from Bezalila, Madagascar

Bezalila was formed in 1994 as a co-operative for workshops making Malagasy handicrafts.

One of our most popular ranges, these models are all made from recycled tin cans.

Bezalila has 18 workshops, providing Fair Trade employment to formerly impoverished artisans in crafts such as weaving, woodwork, bone carving, and modelling recycled tin cans, called “Kapoaka” in Madagascar.

Molten glass & teak root sculptures

In a village in the hills above Ubud in Bali is a glassblowing workshop. In one corner two women are preparing broken sheet glass for recycling. Close by four men rush to and fro heating the glass until it glows, then deftly blowing it into an extraordinary range of shapes.

Elsewhere other artisans are preparing discarded fragments of teak root. The result is a collection of beautiful and unique pieces, the glass melted to hug the natural contours of the root on which they perch, frozen in time like Dali's molten watches.

Bali's bottle man

On an Ubud back street is an artist who is passionate about recycling. Budi loves repurposing glass to give it a second life. He speaks animatedly of collection runs to bars and restaurants, and of finding particular bottles as rare and precious to him as jewels.

These artisan pieces are real collectors' items, perfect as statement pieces on any table and proof positive that anything can have a second life. Note that supply may vary as Budi has to source the bottles!
