

The Ancient Mariners - Save our turtles!

All sea turtles are at risk. Entanglement in fishing nets, plastics and other waste are a big problem; their habitats are increasingly degraded by coastal development; they are often killed for food, or to make handicrafts; finally rise in sea temperatures through global warming affects their eggs, and violent storms their nesting sites. What can we do? Turtle-friendly tourism, better fishing methods, even just reducing the use of plastic bags... They're part of a much bigger problem and raising awareness about the threats to our oceans through global warming, over-fishing, pollution and plastic waste will all help

Save our elephants!

The main threat to elephants is a familiar one: loss of habitat. The risk is especially severe for Asian elephants, where habitats are increasingly fragmented by roads, logging, agriculture and new building. Poaching for ivory is a bigger issue in Africa. Both species are threatened by climate change.

Elephants need a huge amount of water, difficult enough anyway, but climate change is bringing more and more droughts and unpredictable weather patterns. Anything we can do to tackle the climate crisis will help!

Elepoo paper products

Recycling does not come more hardcore or more fun- packed than this! And, to put anxious minds at ease, there is no unpleasant smell and the paper is perfectly safe. Notepads, fridge magnets and hanging signs for all occasions.

The paper is probably one of the most ecologically safe papers to make and use. Colours, if added, are made with vegetable and natural dyes. No bleach is used. The waste water is let out in cultivated fields close by ... works as a great fertilizer.

Here we introduce notepads, 'pooicles' and lots of new products for all occasions. We especially like the 'get some time' yoga ele clock.

Animal beach bags

TOP SELLING

Due to the huge success of this popular range, we introduce 3 new animals, all threatened by the destruction of the forests they dwell in. Like you, we are alarmed at the many threats facing the natural world, and this range of beach bags will we hope raise awareness of some of the most endangered species around the world.

Each bag comes with a designer label that explains about the individual animal and the main threats that it faces, primarily from human activity.

The bags are screen printed and assembled by a Fair Trade producer group in India so buying these beautiful and colourful bags promotes Fair Trade and artisan crafts in India too!

Hand-knitted in Peru, these finger puppets have the cute factor and keep selling year after year. Here, we introduce a few new ones.

We buy them from CIAP, a Fair Trade export organization which is made up of 20 artisan cooperatives, including about 700 artisans and benefitting over 2,000 people. The knitting is done mainly by women in rural areas, helping communities to stay together.

Bee houses

We all know that the wild world is under threat. One way we can all help is to provide easy homes for birds and bees.

The bee houses here are designed to provide nest cells for solitary bees of which there are 240 species in the UK. Species such as the red mason bees and leafcutter bees nest in tubes or tunnels. You can encourage these busy pollinators by providing artificial nest sites such as those we are selling here. Bee houses must be positioned in full sun, facing south or east, and be at least a metre off the ground.

Butterfly houses

Habitat loss, pollution and changing weather patterns have had a huge impact on our native butterflies. We can help by putting a simple 'butterfly house' in our garden which, we understand, can be used as a shelter from bad weather, for feeding and mating, and for hibernation.

Some butterflies hibernate amongst bramble or ivy in sheltered, sunny places, others choose somewhere dark and damp: tree hollows, sheds, and garages. For your butterfly house to work you need to put it in a sheltered place about four feet off the ground.
